

AMERICAN SWEETHEART (Lucie Brátová _ Jan Krejčík)

Swallow the last gulp of alcohol
Your brain can't control you anymore
The pills that met your system are going to waste
Don't forget your name

You lived by your childish dreams
Mother, oh mother can't you hear?
How she's breaking apart
Blinded by the light

She was a beauty queen
Just as she wanted to be
American Sweetheart
Her life now falls apart

Black and white pictures on the wall
Never tell a soul
How your mind betrays you

And all those voices in your head
They seem much harder to forget
They still chase you, chase you

She was a beauty queen
Just as she wanted to be
American Sweetheart
Her life now falls apart

But they kept telling her all along
That this can go wrong
Oh they kept telling her all along
That this can go wrong

You wanted the whole world
Gave up your body for broken promises
Centuries away people chanting your name

But tell me was it worth it?
To lose your head in a play
Don't play...

She was a beauty queen
Just as she wanted to be
American Sweetheart
Her life now falls apart

She was a beauty queen
Just as she wanted to be
American Sweetheart
